Helen's Divorce To Be Cancelled by Supreme Court; Lupescu Says Her Heart Will Never Heal.

Madame Lupescu
Is Broken Hearted

LONDON, June 8.—(UN)— Madame Lupescu is suffering grief "almost too great to bear" because Prince Carol left her to become king of Rumania.

BY ALEXANDER HURTIG.
United News Correspondent.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 8.

(UN)—Prince Carol was proclaimed
"King Carol II" by parliament today.

He took the oath of office immediately, promising a unifying policy for Rumania, amnesty to all political prisoners and received the resignation of Premier George Mironescu, whose 24-hour government had confirmed him as premier.

The title of sovereign was stripped from Carol's 9-year-old son, Michael, who was named heir to the throne.

The next step was annulment of the divorce obtained by Michael's mother, Princess Helen of Greece, when Carol went into exile with Madame Magda Lupescu in France.

Beginnings Ruling at Once.

Thus, by one of the most sensational coups in modern history, the errant Carol within 37 hours changed his status from that of a shunned expatriate to that of monarch in full possession of 17,500,000 Rumanians.

By receiving the cabinet's resignation he projected himself at once into the activities of office. He immediately summoned Julius Maniu, peasant party leader who had given way in the premiership 14 hours before, and asked him to form a new cabinet with the help of Professor Jorge, his own former tutor and leader of the small national party.

Maniu and Jorge had joined with the interim premier, Mironescu, in clearing the way for Carol's kingship today.

The popular rejoicing which showed itself when the 39-year-old Carol stepped from a plane onto Bucharest soil Friday night continued unabated through the proclamation ceremonies.
By a vote of 310 to 3, the senate and chamber, sitting jointly, adopted a motion of Premier Mironescu to proclaim King Carol. Only a two-thirds vote was needed.

Deputies Deeply Moved.

Virtually the whole population of Bucharest and neighboring cities jammed the streets to see Carol go to the parliament building to take the oath. An unbroken ovation greeted him the entire distance from Ceretral palace, whence he was accompanied by Prince Nicholas, regent for Michael.

Members of the assembly received Carol with unusual emotion and enthusiasm. After simple rites in which he swore to uphold the Rumanian constitution, the man who for years preferred love to a throne, made a brief speech to the nation's representatives.

The divorce which Princess Helen new Queen, Helen, obtained in 1928 must be annulled, it was decided, on the ground that the decree was legally deficient, not having been granted during a legal monarchy. Helen, whom Carol deserted in 1925, was said to have determined to fulfill the nation's will and not divide the country into two hostile camps by resenting her sweetheart's return.

After Carol was proclaimed king, Mironescu submitted a bill proclaiming Michael as heir to the throne. Little Michael, at the time, was playing with his mechanical toys, apparently unimpressed by the events altering his position in life. He only knew that his father was king.

Toll in New York in Month Is 37; 12 Russians Drink U. S. Alcohol and Die.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(UN)—

Death, lurking in poison liquor that depended upon straight wood alcohol for its "kick," has overtaken 37 New Yorkers within a month, 21 within the past four days, five within 24 hours.

An amazing insight into the drinking habits of east side "down-and-outs" was afforded in the arrest of Isidore Kovins, proprietor of a hardware store on Cooper square, who today was arraigned in magistrate's court on a charge of manslaughter and held in $25,000 bail.

Labeled As Poison.

Kovins' arrest followed the assignment of a group of detectives to inquire into the sources of what Dr.
Charles Norris, medical examiner, described as "a flood of poison liquor."

A check revealed that most of the fatalities had occurred in the Bowery area and that the Kovins store was doing more business than its line of hardware seemed to merit. After all the demand for garden seed and saws along Cooper square is almost negligible, despite the pulling power of a huge "selling out" sign.

The detectives sent an informer into the store and according to the story he told later he asked for liquor. He was handed a small flask on which was a label bearing the skull and crossbones and stating unmistakably that the liquid content was "a violent poison" that "cannot be taken internally without inflicting blindness and general physical decay, ultimately resulting in death."

The informer said he asked for water and that Kovins obliged, even suggesting the proper mixture to form
"smoke," the water-and-alcohol high-ball apparently popular in the Bowery. This concoction retails at 15 cents.

Unusual Charge.

As soon as the agent had put his money on the counter the detectives detained him, seized the flask and the two five-gallon drums containing the same liquid and arrested six men who allegedly had been imbibing the denatured alcohol.

The original charge against Kovins was violation of a section of the penal law which forbids the possession of a sale of any anesthetic substance for the purpose of selling it with intent to administer it to any person except by direction of a licensed physician. This charge was of the recent vintage, having been enacted after authorities had questioned the drinkers who had been loitering in Kovins' store.

Dr. Norris said today after announcing five new deaths within 24 hours, that he had made an analysis of the stomach content of many of the recent fatalities and discovered no trace of pure grain alcohol.

"This flood of poison liquor," he said, "appears to be an heroic modern attempt to reduce unemployment. Most of the producers were obviously out of work and were virtually penniless."

12 RUSSIANS KILLED
BY UNITED STATES ALCOHOL.

MOSCOW, June 8.—(UN)—

Twelve Odessa longshoremen are dead and 100 others are dying from the drinking of denatured alcohol imported from the United States, according to word received here today.

Local newspapers did not publish the news of the fatalities which occurred more than a week ago, but Odessa citizens, learning here, told the United States that the deaths followed the docking of the steamer Puget Sound, recently purchased in the United States by the Soviet shipping trust.

The Puget Sound's cargo included 800 tons of denatured alcohol intended for use in the lumber industry.
Close to 800 dock workers assigned to unload the ship broke into cases containing the poisoned liquor and began to drink it. Hospital treatment was required by 103 drinkers and a dozen died within a few days.

Wife of Candidate
Is Injured in Crash

Rendered unconscious when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into the rear of another machine at Glenn and Windsor streets late Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Cecil V.
Whiddon, wife of the eleventh ward councilman candidate, was rushed to Grady hospital, where she was received. She was admitted to the hospital by Dr. Arthur F. Gottsmann, of 714 East Hunter street, it was reported to Patrolman J. D. Buice.

"Bugs" Moran, Chief Enemy of Capone, and Five Lieutenants Missing;
Police Seek Bodies.

CHICAGO, June 8.—(AP)—Discovery of the body of Eugene "Red" Mc-Laughlin, notorious gangster, in the Chicago drainage canal has strengthened the police theory that a half-dozen "missing" Moran gunmen have been slain and their bodies similarly disposed of.

George "Bugs" Moran, kingpin of the North Side badlands, along with five of his chief lieutenants, have disappeared since the outbreak of the latest gang war, police revealed today.
The other Moran mobsters, posted as missing, are:

Ted Newberry, business agent and Moran's right hand; Leo Mongrove, Moran's bodyguard; Bennie Bennett, who police said left a profitable liquor business in New York to join Moran;

Robert Schmidt, known as "Frisco
Dutch," reputed machine gunner.
Willie Higgins, who entered Chicago
racketeering after a like career in St.
Paul.

All of several of these missing men have been executed by rival gangsters," Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office said.

Roche plans to have the Chicago sanitary district canal dragged in search of more missing gangsters' bodies.

It was in the drainage canal that McLaughlin's body, weighted with iron, was brought to the surface by the churning of a tugboat.

'Little Tammany' Union Is Planned For South Side

Voters of the southwestern division of Greater Atlanta will meet at Lee Street school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock tonight for the purpose of forming a permanent section-wide political union, with the purpose in view of having several traffic lanes opened up from downtown Atlanta to the principal community centers. Walter W. Whitington, of the West End section, will preside at the organization meeting.

College Park, East Point, Ben Hill and Cascade Heights, as well as residents of the first, seventh and tenth wards will send delegations to the meeting, it is announced, as it is those sections that voice greatest protest against "bottled-up" conditions. "We intend to organize a regular 'Little Tammany' out here," said Thomas Pitts, well-known Atlanta financier who resides on Cascade road.

At least two new routes into Atlanta will be proposed at the meeting, it is announced. One road would lead into the city from Campbell county through Ben Hill, Cascade Heights, Gordon street, bearing north, just west of Lee street, reaching the business area over Chappell street in the vicinity of the Terminal station. The other proposed route would traverse Lee street from College Park to West End, where a connection would be made with either Wells or Glenn streets that would empty traffic around city hall and the courthouse. A connection with Lee and Peters streets will also be considered.

All public officials and candidates for office are invited to participate in the organization, and they will be passed on according to their records in office as affect the southwest section, and a good guess will be made as to what a candidate may be able to do," it is announced. The organization will be political and has no connection with existing civic bodies. An effort to widen Whitehall street from the junction of Forsyth to Stewards avenue on a basis of benefits and damages has been blocked by objections of several property owners who threaten to resort to court action. The proposition to open thoroughfares on either side of Whitehall is an indirect result of this attitude, it was stated.

proposed plan which he submitted to me for the remainder of the campaign. I wish to call attention to a statement made in his formal announcement of his candidacy for alderman of the fifth ward, wherein he stated he was seeking no quarter and giving no quarter.

"I laid my plans accordingly and now at this late date, just a few days before the campaign closes, he submits a proposition to dispense with the usual campaign procedure. Why? Mr. Couch has made the first part of his campaign as he planned without submitting any kind of proposition to me, and I intend to finish my campaign as I have planned."

McCutcheon Unopposed. Withdrawal Saturday of Philip Rosenbaum leaves Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon unopposed for reelection in the second. Alderman Robert E. Pennington, of the first ward, is opposed for re-election by Roy Coleman. Alderman G. Everett Milligan, of the tenth ward, is opposed by John C. Mackey.

A verbal agreement of all four candidates for mayor to cast the nomination to the man receiving the high vote has obviated the possibility of a run-off election in the primary. The candidates also agreed to discontinue paid campaign workers immediately.

This agreement was entered into by the candidates Saturday night and a contract to that effect will be signed by the four candidates this morning, it was said.

Other meetings announced for the week are as follows: Monday, 8 p.m. Tuesday at Adair school; Key, Thursday night at Hoke Smith Junior High school; Huist, 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night, Grant Park pavilion; and 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at Exposition cotton mills.

Two Negroes Arrested In Street Car Holdup

Following intensive investigation on the part of two plainclothes patrolmen and two special officers of the Georgia Power Company, negroes thought to be the two who held up and robbed S. G. Jones, street car motorman on the West Fair street line last Thursday night, were arrested and placed in the city jail Sunday night.

City Officers E. S. Agree and H. C. Newton, assisted by Special Officers W. L. Rolden and Y. H. Ellabey, made the arrests Sunday night. The two negroes being held on technical charges of suspicion were William Powell, of 175 Elm street, and J. T. Stafford, of 134 Battle street. They will be given a hearing before a recorder today when the charge will be changed to robbery.

Motorman Jones was robbed of $33 at the point of a gun. According to the officers, Powell admits that he was one of the two and stated that Stafford was his accomplice. Stafford denies the charge and made no comment when Motorman Jones identified Powell.

La Guardia Issues "Rules" For Home Liquor Making

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(UN)—A set of "rules" covering legal aspects of home-brewing and home wine-making was made public tonight by Representative La Guardia, representative of New York, who said he was giving it out only to supplement the agriculture department's advice on the chemical aspects.

He noted that the government bulletin on making "wine, pardon me, fruit juice," was perfectly legal because it tells how to prevent fermentation through keeping the temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit and through adding chemicals.

Assuming that "some guide as to the limits, both ways," is timely, La Guardia listed the following rules:

1. The beverage must be made in the home and consumed in the home. It cannot be transported.
2. It can be made only in such quantities as is in keeping with the size of the family, the mode of living, and proportionate to the means of the family.
3. The home must be used exclusively for dwelling purposes. It must not include a store or any public place.
4. A home includes an apartment in a multi-family house, a hotel, and a detached building on a farm.
5. The beverage may be called wine or beer but it must not be labeled as such.
6. The beverage must be non-intoxicating in fact. That does not mean that it must be only one-half of 1 per cent. It may be more. It is not for the prohibition department or any of its agents to determine what is intoxicating. The question is one which only the jury with the aid of the court can determine. The question of the intoxicating character of the beverage is a question of fact to be fixed by the jury and the court.
7. It is a matter of fact determined by the jury and the court as to whether or not the beverage is of such a character as to be intoxicating. It is a question of opinion of medical, chemical and other experts. Both sides, the gov-

Ocean Hop Postponed By Kingsford-Smith

BALDONNEL, Ireland, June 8.—(AP)—Reports of bad weather late today caused Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith to postpone once more his attempt at an east-west flight over the Atlantic ocean. The take-off had been set for early tomorrow, but the second postponement left the time undecided.

Captain Smith's airplane, the Southern Cross, was in the hangar here at Baldonnel tonight, ready to fly to the Curragh camp, whence the start will be made.

The Southern Cross was tuned up at noon in preparation for a flight to the camp. Weather reports indicated that there was a prospect of starting in the morning. A few minor adjustments were made on the plane, and Captain Smith said it was in perfect condition.

Powerful pumps have been installed by the runway at Curragh and all the gasoline needed for the Atlantic flight could be put aboard in a comparatively short time should the fliers decide on a hurried start. Smith, however, has mapped out his plans on the expectation of taking off at dawn and hesitates to change them on a moment's notice.

Sharpshooters with rifles have been guarding the plane in the air-drome here, constantly shooting rooks and crows which abound in the neighborhood to keep them from crashing into the propellers when the engine is running.

The radio call signal for the Southern Cross is VMZAB and the plane mark is GAATHE. Radio messages may be sent on the Southern Cross progress every hundred miles. Wireless messages will be sent on a 30-meter wave length and they can listen on a 600-meter wave length for weather news from ships at sea.

The Curragh camp expects to be in touch with the plane by radio all during the flight. J. W. Stannage is the radio man and M. E. Van Dyk will be Captain Smith's pilot and Captain J. F. Saul, a mariner, will be navigator.

Mexican Ruling Fails To Affect Divorces

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—(AP)—Justice Francisco Diaz Lombardo today set at rest the minds of many Mexicans and Americans who had obtained divorces in Cuernavaca, state of Morelos.

The third division of the supreme court last week threw a cloud over the Cuernavaca divorces by revoking one issued there on the ground that the Morelos law was invalid, but Justice Lombardo, who presides over that division, announced today that the decision affected only the case in which it was granted. He said that the constitution forbids the automatic annulment of all cases by a decision on one.

Tech's Largest Graduating Class Gets Diplomas Today

Three Distinguished Visitors To Take Part In Exercises; Dr. Ellis A. Fuller Delivers Sermon.

Commencement exercises for the largest graduating class in Georgia Tech's history will be held this morning with three distinguished visitors present to take part in the presentation of diplomas to the graduates. Dr. John J. Tigert, former United States commissioner of education; Major General Frank McCoy, commander of the Fourth Corps area, and President A. E. Clift, of the Central of Georgia railroad, will be guests.

Believing Christ to be the subject of the baccalaureate sermon preached by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, at the First Baptist church, Dr. Fuller said, "and we must have faith both in God and ourselves."

Dr. Fuller said that "faith is not knowledge but the parent of knowledge." Closing exercises for the 372 graduates will begin at 10 o'clock this morning on the campus terrace in front of the college library.

Dr. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, is one of the country's most distinguished educators. He was the first Rhodes scholar from Tennessee, and since the completion of graduate work in 1914 in England, he has been actively engaged as an educational administrator and as author of publications relative to that subject.

General McCoy will deliver commissions as second lieutenants to 68 Georgia Tech graduates. The Tech R. O. T. C. is the largest reserve unit in the corps area.

Mr. Clift will deliver railroad shop certificates to many students of the co-operative department of Tech. He will be accompanied to Atlanta by several well-known railroad officials. Dr. Stirling Pitts Wiggins, president of the North Atlanta district, will offer the invocation. Caldwell, registrar, will announce the honors and prizes for the year.

To confer degrees, President M. H. Butler will confer the degrees and certificates as recommended by the several department heads. The departments with candidates for degrees in the baccalaureate are: Architecture, engineering, chemistry, ceramics, civil engineering, commerce, co-operative, electrical engineering, general science, mechanical engineering, special textile, and evening school of commerce.

The school will announce through Dr. Crenshaw, head of the modern language department, that the French prize, a trip to France, is this year awarded to R. Brown, of Lake Providence, La. Second place in this competition will go to P. M. Speake, of Huntsville, Ala.

An Atlanta student, R. J. Gall, way, 177 Campbell street, S. E., is to be awarded the trip to Spain, with J. M. Miller, 683 West Peachtree street, taking second place in the award.

Through the department of architecture it will be announced that George C. Howell, Jr., of Wicks Mount, N. C., is to be awarded the $1,000 scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania. The school of Fine Arts was the subject for the competition of 18 selected architectural schools. First place in this competition is awarded to Charles E. Bosc, a Georgia Tech student, and in attending the University of Pennsylvania this year he won a scholarship which sends him for a year abroad for one year in study at the Fontainebleau school.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR No. 73

Step by step the Arab beat back his adversary until the latter's horse all but trotted upon the ape-man. Then a vicious blow toppled the black warrior backward almost upon Tarzan. As the fellow tumbled from his saddle, the possibility of escape which was represented by the riderless horse electrified the ape-man to instant action. Before the frightened beast could gather himself for flight a naked giant was astride his back.

A strong hand had grasped the rein, and the surprised Arab discovered a new foe in the saddle of him whom he had slain. But this enemy wielded no sword and his spear and bow remained upon his back. The Arab, recovered from his first surprise, dashed in to annihilate this presumptuous stranger. He aimed a mighty blow at the ape-man's head, a blow which swung harmlessly through thin air as Tarzan ducked from its path.

And then the Arab felt the other's horse brushing his leg, a great arm shot out and encircled his waist, and before he could recover himself the Arab was dragged from his saddle. Tarzan used him as a shield on a mad run straight through the encircling ranks of his enemies. Just beyond them he tossed this human shield aside upon the ground. The last the Arab saw of his strange foe was as Tarzan galloped off across the plain in the direction of the forest beyond.

For another hour the battle raged, nor did it cease until the last of the Abyssinians lay dead upon the ground or had galloped off toward the north in flight. But a handful of men escaped, among them Abdul Mourak. The victorious riders collected about the pile of gold ingots which the Abyssinians had uncovered and there awaited the return of their leader. But their exultation was mixed with a new fear—the strange apparition of the white man galloping away.

75 Auto Makers Have Aided Strib To Annex Title

BY T. K. JONES.

Although he is not in the cauliflower business there's a Stribling, of Georgia, who's a champion. Automobiles instead of fistfuls have won a title for Patrolman Jesse D. Stribling, of the Atlanta police department.

A distant cousin of the famous Macon Mauler, "Officer Strib," as he is known to local hundreds has owned exactly 75 different makes of motor cars since 1907. He has never lost the same car for longer than three years and in many cases has disposed of a newly-acquired machine within 30 minutes after getting it.

The first auto that natives of Florida, Ala., ever saw was the property of "Officer Strib." That was in 1907 and the "buggy" (not slang) was named an "International." "It was very, very high off the ground," he recalls, "and was capable of attaining the terrific speed of 15 miles an hour."

After much dealing in the new-fangled mode of transportation he moved to Macon shortly before the war and engaged with "Pa" Stribling in the taxi business, plying between Macon and Camp Wheeler. All the while he continued "getting a different kind of auto" even after he moved to Atlanta 11 years ago, and joined the police department two years later.

Malta Is Locale Of Mob Violence

MALTA, June 8.—(P)—Mounted police were forced to charge dense street crowds here today to halt a demonstration against the Catholic archbishop of Malta by supporters of Lord Strickland, head of the Malta government.

The disorder occurred after the Whit Sunday services conducted in the cathedral by the archbishop. Crowds assembled outside the building shouting, "Long live the Strickland! Down with Italy!"

Police were hurried to the scene in force, but were unable to disperse the throngs until the mounted men charged them at several points. The archbishop remained in the cathedral behind closed doors for a time. When he came forth police escorted him to the palace amid cheers from his supporters and counter demonstrations from the other faction.

Several arrests were made and all shops remained closed during the disturbance. Lord Strickland's government has been at loggerheads with the Catholic authorities. The friction started when the church proposed to transfer a monk who was a British citizen to a Sicilian monastery against his wishes.

Those Rich Daughtertys Like Each Other Again

NEW YORK, June 8.—(UN)—The pugilistic Daughterty boy returned from Canada today with his no longer embittered father.

Daniel Daughterty, Sr., seemed reconciled to having his sons split the sweetsake winnings, and Eddie, 18, and Daniel, Jr., 21, were kindly disposed toward "Pop." Each of the youngsters had a check for $71,813.88 and some doubt about what the immediate future would bring forth.

It occurred to Eddie and Danny that a leave of absence might be desirable and they intend to suggest that tomorrow to their employers. As for Daughterty, Sr., he doubts very much whether he will return to his post as a doorman at an apartment house. The boys have told him they would finance a trip to Ireland and "Pop" is thinking it over.

Crown Prince Holds Silver Anniversary

HAMBURG, June 8.—(P)—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm and Crown Princess Cecilie of Germany, after a quiet celebration of their silver wedding anniversary with their children and relatives here, left tonight for a gala celebration at the home of former Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn, Holland.

The crown princess arrived here yesterday for a visit in South America and the celebration took the form of a family dinner in a hotel last night, attended only by close relatives. A luncheon today was attended by a number of prominent Hamburg citizens.

New York U. Head Deplores Money Power

NEW YORK, June 8.—(UN)—Public safety would be strengthened if money should go only to those persons who have the moral maturity and the intelligence to use it wisely, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown said today in his baccalaureate address to the graduating class of New York University.

Speaking of "The Philosophy of Money," the chancellor said: "Every day and all about us the simple dollar is sitting out the souls of men; and on a gigantic scale it is sitting out the soul of America. Has this country the moral maturity to evaluate and master its prosperity?"

FEDERATED WOMEN IN ANNUAL MEMORIAL

MOUNT HARRISON, Col., June 8.—(P)—In the nature-made cathedral of the Bowl of the Red Rocks, west of here, the Colorado Rockies, members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs gathered today for their biennial memorial service.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Pasadena, Cal., past president of the general federation, delivered the memorial address.

"We are left to carry on the ideals fostered by the loved ones who have departed," she said. "Their cause and ours is one, and in honoring their memory we must not fail them." Nearly a thousand persons sat in the natural amphitheater before the rostrum hewn from the richly colored red rocks of the bowl. A forest of pine trees framed the spot where John C. Sippel, national president of the federation, opened the services.

The memorial service was the scheduled session of delegates to the twentieth biennial convention of the federation today. The state presidents met at dinner preliminary to their meeting tomorrow morning, when they become the nominating committee of the convention. No change is expected in the lineup of officers with the exception of the treasurer, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, of Paducah, Ky., whose term expires. She probably will be succeeded by Mrs. Edward Hammett, of Sheboygan, Wis., most prominently mentioned for the place.

Bright Skies Seen for Today By Weatherman

Abandoning their early claims of showers for Atlanta today, officials of the United States weather bureau early Sunday night relented and admitted that the town probably would be visited by pleasant weather under the heading "mostly fair."

Sunday was just like that with a high temperature of 72 degrees and a low reading of 54 degrees.

Robber Is Slain At Bank Window

TUSKAHOMA, Okla., June 8.—(P)—One of two robbers who attempted to enter the Tuskahomah bank today was fatally wounded by sheriff's deputies who saw the men trying to enter the building through a window. Three women waited for the robbers in a motor car near the bank and helped them escape.

The wounded man died after the car had sped toward Wilburton, 20 miles away, where his body was left. Officers were searching the territory for the other persons involved in the attempted holdup.

Tennessee Solons Seek Renomination

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 8.—(P)—Advice received here tonight indicated that nine of Tennessee's ten members of the lower house of the United States congress will ask renomination in the party primaries of August 7.

The tenth member, Cordell Hull, of the fourth district, is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the junior United States senate seat, now occupied by Senator William E. Block, of Chattanooga.

Emory Commencement Opens With Baccalaureate Sermon

Value of Personality Is Stressed by Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, Texas.

The value of human personality was stressed by Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, Texas, in his baccalaureate sermon preached Sunday morning in the Emory University auditorium to the 1930 graduates. The bishop took as his scripture, "Now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be," and wove it into a message challenging the 270 graduates to the responsibility which was theirs as members of the human race. "Truth whatever its worth depends upon personality for its transmission," was his thesis.

"I believe men are more sons of God than ever before in this world. I believe the mind of man is more capable of receiving truth than ever before in this world. I am not giving this generation the credit for this. You and I are standing on the shoulders of some one who has been standing steadily for a long time."

"We youngsters have done so much we want to know what you youngsters will have left to do. That is what they told us 50 years ago." But Bishop Moore believed there is much to be done by the graduates of today. He showed that "creative" is the word which today expresses more of the plan and movement of the age than any other. However, he said, it is not so much a new man as it is more man than that is needed.

"The highway leads onward to the consummation of the oneness of God," he concluded. "Such is a challenge to man, for God continuously replenishes the power he first gave man. 'God never sets man upon a highway and leads him into a blind alley.' President Harvey W. Cox introduced the speaker as the new bishop of the area in which Emory University is located and welcomed him to this section. Dr. W. J. Young, head of the department of missions, Candler school of theology, offered the invocation and Dr. W. T. Watkins, pastor of the Emory church, pronounced the benediction. "Violin Concerto in G Minor," by Mendelssohn, was played as a solo by Joseph Glazer.

Today is Alumni day with Daniel Garnett Bickers, ex '06, associate editor of The Savannah Morning News, as the alumni orator. His address will be delivered at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in the theology chapel. The annual meeting of the board of trustees will be held at 9 a. m. Registration of alumni and meetings of reunion classes will be held at 10 o'clock. There will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. in the university cafeteria for the alumni, seniors, faculty and trustees.

At 6 p. m. the reunion classes will banquet. At 8:30 President and Mrs. Harvey W. Cox will entertain the seniors and their families, alumni, faculty and trustees at a reception.

The Rev. John Ernest Rattenbury, of Southport, England, will deliver the baccalaureate address at the commencement exercises at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. Medals, prizes and other awards will be made at that time. Emory probably will award only two honorary degrees this year, one of which will be given to Mr. Rattenbury, the commencement orator.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripped; children liked its pleasant taste. All drug stores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.—(adv.)

Metal Weather Strips Becoming More Popular

"Installing of metal weather strips on homes and public buildings is being considered more than ever by the prudent building owner," says H. M. Callaway, president of the H. M. Callaway & Son Company, Inc.

"Especially this so," he continued, "when fuel costs are so high, and sources of winter colds and sickness better understood. When we first added metal weather strips to our line some years ago, many of our best friends could not see the need of them, but later began to realize that they were an investment."

"Monarch metal weather strips are correctly designed for permanent protection against dangerous draughts that blow in around unprotected doors and windows and provide additional protection against dust, soot and blowing rains that will get in through the small cracks."

"We have expert workmen who are putting these metal weather strips on and our customers include hundreds of prominent people in Georgia and adjoining states."

Business Outlook Bright For Atlanta, Says Horne

"We are very optimistic about the business outlook in Atlanta for the balance of this year," says W. A. Horne, president of the Horne Desk & Fixture Company, of 55 Pryor street, N. E.

"In my own business," he continued, "can be taken as a barometer of future business in most any locality. When many different lines begin to add various pieces of office equipment, it indicates that they are getting ready for future increased business, and for the past three weeks we have been selling an unusual lot of office equipment to many of our customers."

"Another thing that is helping our business right now and will help many other lines very soon is the unusual amount of buildings being erected here."

"The building of these office structures and other large substantial buildings are in themselves an inspiration for smaller property owners as well as home owners to add to or improve their own property, and it takes all of this kind of pride to make our fast-growing city attract new business to locate here."

"We, in our own line, feel that we play a very important part in carrying just the right kind of office and commercial furniture that will be in keeping with the dignity of the office and business represented. In taste and time it is good business and taste to have that kind of modern office equipment. While primarily bought for convenience it should also lend an atmosphere of refinement that gives an impression of substantial business backing and confidence back of the executives."

"Many of the firms moving from one office to another are replacing their wood office furniture for the convenient steel equipment. Especially does this apply to filing cases and steel desks. In our nationally advertised Brown-Morse steel furniture we have a very popular line."

"A feature about good steel office equipment is that it is the same in all kinds of weather—giving little or no trouble year after year, and always looks well."

The Horne Desk & Fixture Company carries a general line of office furniture and matched period suites, made by the Stow-Davis Furniture Company, particularly attractive to the executives of large corporations, banks and prosperous firms.

This firm very often takes advantage of buying some big stock at a sacrifice price and at this time has two carloads of assorted office chairs that represent exceptional values.

Sheet Metal Contractor Invents Ridge Ventilator

R. F. Knox, sheet metal contractor, has invented a ridge cap ventilator that greatly relieves the heat under the ridge roll on a pitch roof. This is a small 6-inch ornamental cap, that can be placed anywhere along the middle sections of the ridge and the heat attracted on the hot days by the metal of the ridge roll is let out at the ventilators.

In addition to greatly relieving the excessive heat under the gable in any roof, these new Knox ridge roll ventilators are very attractive and relieve the long stretches of some roofs, rooms and other over-crowded amusement, business or working places.

Coal Company Adds To Yard Facilities

W. D. Hardaway Coal Company since adding the new coal yard at 1165 Bankhead avenue, is better prepared to serve all parts of Atlanta and vicinity.

This firm began selling last year an extra grade of coal that comes from West Virginia, known as Pocahontas smokeless coal. It is a semi-anthracite coal that burns long and throws off an intense heat.

"We first bought a few car loads of this smokeless coal," says Mr. Hardaway, "and kept a careful check on smoke and soot."

This coal costs no more at this time of the year than ordinary coal. There is an abundance of it mined all the year but when the demand increases the price goes up. We can get all we can buy at this season at low summer prices but when the fall comes the closer dealers and larger buyers receive a preference.

Coal bought and stored in the summer is a profitable investment as about 20 per cent saving is possible. The convenient location of the three Hardaway coal yards permits them to make quick deliveries to all sections of the city and suburban territory. The new Bankhead avenue yard supplies the west side and most of the

Mattress Company Is Well-Equipped

The Superior Mattress Company, of 835 Bankhead avenue, N. W., is well-equipped to take an old or soiled mattress and renovate it. After the old ticking is removed the cotton or felt is reginned, the dust is blown out and this filler becomes soft and clean again.

"Here is a peculiar thing which we have noticed about renovating mattresses," says H. R. Simon, president of this company, "and that is that once a housewife has an old or soiled mattress made over she becomes convinced that she can have a comfortable, clean mattress made out of her other old ones for very little money and every few months she will call us up to have another one made over like the last one."

W. D. Meadows, secretary-treasurer, says the company has a large number of new and standard patterns in ticking to select from, and in this way she can have her own choice of coverings.

The company can give one-day service where needed.

Treaty Makes America Build As England Wishes—Johnson

California Senator Resumes Bitter Attack; Says Britain Is Virtual Boss Under Naval Pact.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Assailing the provisions of the London naval treaty limiting American cruiser strength, Senator Johnson, republican, California, today said in a formal statement that under the treaty "Great Britain builds as she pleases; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

Senator Johnson denounced the effect of the treaty on the cruiser program for the United States as the senate foreign relations committee prepared to assemble tomorrow to consider final action on the pact.

In calling the committee together, Chairman Borah believed a report of the treaty would be made to the senate this week. Apparently the controversy over the right of the committee to the notes exchanged with the other powers prior to the London party has been ended by the blunt refusal of President Hoover to turn over the papers when Senator Johnson asked for them.

If the treaty is reported to the senate this week it will be in position to be taken up at any time, but Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, is standing by his program to have a special session of the special session which the president is prepared to call.

Senator Johnson in his statement today explained the position of the treaty. He said the treaty limits the American navy to 18 eight-inch gun cruisers and has no use for the six-inch gun ships preferred by Great Britain. Therefore, he complained, the treaty limited the American navy to 18 eight-inch gun cruisers and did not permit the American navy to build its cruiser tonnage in the kind of ships preferred by its admiralty.

"Great Britain," he said, "because of her naval bases and her overwhelming preponderance of merchant marine requires for her fleet smaller cruisers, mounting only a six-inch gun. The United States, because deficient and wholly inferior in both bases and merchant marine, requires for her fleet cruisers of larger size, 10,000 tons, and the larger eight-inch gun."

"Great Britain in the long course of negotiations suggested a total tonnage on cruisers of 330,000. This was accepted. The American navy desired that Great Britain should build such cruisers as we deemed appropriate. Great Britain had consistently and pertinaciously declined to permit the two nations to build within the limits of the tonnage, such cruisers as each thought necessary."

"Finally, Great Britain suggested two categories of cruisers, dividing them, without going into detail, in substance, into those carrying six-inch guns and those carrying eight-inch guns. Six-inch gun cruisers are of little value to the United States, particularly in the matter of protecting American commerce. They are all sufficient for Great Britain."

"The representatives of our navy, at the insistence of our government, and that an agreement of limitation might be reached, finally, reluctantly agreed to an irreducible minimum of 21 eight-inch gun cruisers. Great Britain offered to 'permit' the United States to build 18. Even this was coupled with the condition we could have only 10 floating light cruisers, and two destroyers. Of course, an equivalent of six-inch gun cruisers was offered, but these the great preponderance of naval authorities hold to be of little consequence to the United States."

"It is no answer to assert that the difference is only that of five cruisers, or that we may build a greater

C. J. Ross Dairy In Fine Location

One of the show sights around Atlanta in the dairy line is the C. J. Ross dairy, located on a high hill on Cascade road near the intersection of the Adamsville road. Here the visitor is impressed with the natural advantages under which the cows are raised and the clean way in which their milk is produced and cared for.

The cows here come from well-drained pastures into long barns with cement floors that are washed twice a day. The cows are also washed twice a day.

The milk is strained and put into the big fly-protected coolers and delivered to the customers in from 30 minutes to three hours.

Mr. Ross is president of the Georgia Dairyman's league, an association of about 100 banded together to assist each other by advice, experiment and example to see that cow's milk reaches the family table with its full food value.

Mr. Ross' dairy is surrounded by 100 acres of pasture and farm lands where he raises great quantities of feed for his own cows. His handsome new home and big dairy barn are pointed out as one of the show sights of Cascade road.

WORLD COURT PLAN

HIT BY KLANSMEN

Removal of U. S. From "Foreign Entanglements" Urged at Meeting.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans and Grand Dragon Samuel Green, of the Georgia Realm, of Ku Klux Klan, attended a meeting of Klan Province No. 1 here Sunday, at which officers were elected.

Up until last July there were eight provinces in Georgia, but under special imperial edict 12 provinces were created, corresponding to the congressional districts. Approximately 250 attended Saturday's meeting, and as some of the witnesses in the hearings remarked, if we had not accepted there probably would have been no agreement.

The attempt is made by the proponents of the London treaty to minimize this difference in cruisers, but the matter was of sufficient importance for Great Britain from the beginning to the end to insist upon our acceptance of her designation of the kind of cruisers we should have, and, as some of the witnesses in the hearings remarked, if we had not accepted there probably would have been no agreement.

The two high officers addressed the meeting. The imperial wizard spoke against the World Court idea and invited Senator W. J. Harris and John M. Slaton, the democratic candidates for the senate, to join together in helping to "keep the United States out of foreign entanglements."

He also rapped Oscar De Priest, new congressman of Chicago, for his tour of the country calling upon his race to defeat all those who voted for Judge Parker's confirmation when the senate refused to nominate him for the supreme court.

Grand Dragon Green said in his talk that everyone would concede the Klan had defeated the road bond issue in Georgia. He stressed the fight the Klan is making for a nine-month operation of all public schools, and for free textbooks for children.

The imperial wizard expects to go to Florida next week to look after Klan matters there.

Hoover Will Pin Medal on Byrd

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(UN)—Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd will be presented by President Hoover with a special gold medal of the National Geographic Society here June 20 for his antarctic explorations.

Byrd will make his first report of the expedition's scientific work, and the motion pictures depicting the organization's work, including the flight over the south pole, will be shown for the first time.

The 42 men who spent 16 months "down under" with Byrd will sit on the platform in the ceremony at the auditorium here, and Dr. Gilbert Hovey Selden, president of the geographic society, will preside.

The society, which sponsored the expedition in part, had to create a special new medal because Byrd already has the Hubbard gold medal of the society. Laura Gardin Fraser made the medal, which bears a portrait of Byrd, a symbolic figure of a winged man conquering the poles.

The personnel of the expedition will board a special train at midnight June 10 after the New York welcome. The entire command will be received at the White House before the medal award.

Two Royal Betrothals Announced in Europe

BERLIN, June 8.—(AP)—A double betrothal between the former royal houses of Greece and Hesse has been formally announced.

The engagement of hereditary Grand Duke George Donatus of Hesse, aged 23, and 18-year-old Princess Cecilie of Greece, previously reported unofficially in the Berlin papers, was confirmed by an announcement from Darmstadt today.

The court marshal of the landgrave of Hesse also announced the engagement of Prince Christophe Ernest Auguste, youngest son of Landgrave Friedrich, and the Princess Sophie, daughter of Prince Andrew of Greece. Princess Sophie will be 16 June 26. Prince Christophe's brother Philippe married Princess Mafalda of Italy in 1928.

The Princess Cecilie also is a daughter of Prince Andrew, whose brother, Prince Christopher, was the husband of the late Mrs. William B. Leeds. The Hesse family is related to both the British royal family and the Hohenzollerns.

Capone Padlock Case Will Reopen Tuesday

MIAMI, Fla., June 8.—(AP)—Attempts of law enforcement agencies to padlock Al Capone's palatial Miami Beach residence will come up for hearing in circuit court here Tuesday, with opposing forces in the contest marshalling a long list of witnesses for the occasion.

The padlock attempt, instituted some time ago by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne, is based on the allegation that the Chicago gang leader's elaborately furnished residence is a "haven for crooks, racketeers and criminals," and consequently is open in alleged violation of the Florida nuisance law.

The action is one of a series of steps taken by local authorities to oust the gangster from the community. He has owned his home here since 1928, and has been here with his family since April 29, this year.

Some testimony has been taken in the case and it is expected that it will be concluded at the next court session.

Explorer Seeks Proof Of Eskimos' Origin

NEW YORK, June 8.—(UN)—A polar expedition may be launched by Dr. Knud Rasmussen, noted arctic explorer, to demonstrate his belief that the Eskimos are related to the Neolithic men who inhabited the caves of what is now France and other parts of Europe.

This was revealed today by Miss Hanne Rasmussen, daughter of the explorer, who arrived aboard the steamer United States from Copenhagen.

She said her father has noted there is a marked resemblance in the art work and cooking utensils of the Eskimos and those of the Neolithic period, discovered in caves of France. Dr. Rasmussen probably will arrive in the United States next winter, she said, to seek this government's backing in the venture. He also plans to seek the aid of the Soviet government and the Scandinavian countries in forming an expedition.

Sea Honeycombers Seen.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 8.—(AP)—An oil tanker reported tonight that Eric Johnson, local boatman, who is taking a honeymoon from Bermuda to the United States in a 14-foot sailing punt, was sighted last night 200 miles off the American coast and going well. Johnson's wife was Florence Smith, an American girl.

Michelson Hopes To Check Speed of Light This Summer

MILE-LONG VACUUM TUBE USED IN TESTS

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 8.—(NANA)—Two corrugated iron abacks connected by a mile long vacuum tube on the famous Irvine ranch near here will be the scene this summer of experiments which Dr. Albert A. Michelson, world-famed physicist of Chicago, hopes will produce the last figure in the calculation of the speed of light.

Dr. Michelson is ready to take up personal supervision of the work already accomplished by his two aides, Dr. Francis Pease, astronomer of the Mt. Wilson observatory staff at Pasadena, and Fred Pearson, Dr. Pease's assistant, who have been on the ground in Orange county for some time.

Although the experiments have directly to do with sunlight, the tests are made with light from an electric arc and are almost entirely confined to the night hours.

The backbone of the Michelson experiment is a vacuum tube, constructed of galvanized corrugated iron, one mile long and three feet in diameter. This tube, built by Mt. Wilson engineers, cost approximately $40,000. It is put together in sixty-foot sections and ordinary automobile inner tubes are used to seal the sections together.

Long Wait.

If progress in the experiment should be slow, the world's largest vacuum tube might be there for years. Dr. Michelson and University of Chicago professors came to southern California in 1925 expecting to spend one summer in the light-speed calculations.

The Irvine ranch experiment is designed to serve as a check upon results obtained in the experiments of Dr. Michelson and Pearson in 1925, 1926 and 1927, between Mt. Wilson and Mt. Baldy. While the deductions from those tests were very satisfactory from a scientific standpoint, Dr. Michelson determined to pursue his theory even further and eliminate victually all possibility of error in establishing the speed of light.

Disturbances in the atmosphere necessitated delays in the taking of the measurements between the mountains. In the closed tube method the air is described as giving "perfect seeing conditions" which remain constant over a considerable period of time.

Light from an electric arc leaves a mirror rotating 500 revolutions per second and passes back and forth in the vacuum tube ten times before it finally returns to the rotating mirror. During this interval the mirror has rotated through a slight angle which is measured by an optical device.

Knowing the angle through which the light is turned, the speed of rotation of the mirror and the distance over which the light travels during this interval, the velocity can be calculated.

As a rough illustration, if the velocity of light is 300,000 kilometers per second, the accuracy of the determination by the Michelson process would be to within one kilometer, which is practically nothing at all. Reduced from the metric system of measurement which the scientists use, the speed of light is 186,283 miles per second, which is 299,706 kilometers.

The chief practical application of the results from the Michelson tests will be the use of his principle in measuring distances between two points without surveying. One of the scientific uses of the value of the velocity of light is that it is a very important constant of nature and appears in the Einstein relativity equations and electrical equations. Regardless of the nature of the wave length, whether it is cosmic or radio, its velocity is the same for all in a vacuum. The speed of light, in other words, is the same on Mars as on the earth, and is the means by which some savants believe interstellar communication may be established, if it ever is established.

'All Quiet' Grips By Utter Truth And Vast Power

"All Quiet on the Western Front," sets a new standard in the art of talking screen. It is as distinct a step forward in the making of pictures as was "Birth of a Nation" or any other of the half-dozen genuine pioneers of the celluloid art which have led producers and directors into new paths.

"All Quiet," unless I miss my guess, will mark the opening of an era of realism in the screen that will be as good for it as a hot bath is good for dusty travelers.

I saw the picture in a private projection room on film row and it will undoubtedly be like an entirely different picture with the perfect setting provided for it at the Erlanger Theater, and with the perfect sound equipment that theater boasts. Even under the handicap of a napkin size screen in a small room, however, it was so vivid a picturization of modern warfare that it was a shock, at the end, to walk out again into the peaceful purlieus of Walton street. I'll see it again tonight at the opening at the Erlanger at 8:30 and compare impressions.

This thing that Lewis Milestone, the director, has created from the book by Erich Maria Remarque, follows the printed story absolutely. There is no deviation for the benefit of censors, so turning aside into prim-

The result—a picture that is an exact replica of trench warfare and life in mud and blood and agony as it was known by the youth of the warring nations in 1914-18. A picture not pretty, but a picture so utterly real that you can never forget it.

Milestone has done many daring things in his direction—things that will cause more discussion, I venture, than any director has done before.

Cast of 'Toytown Revue' To Meet At Ansley Today

All applicants for parts in the great kiddie show, "Toytown Revue," to be given at the Capitol Theater the week of June 23, have been instructed to report at the Ansley hotel roof garden at 10 o'clock this morning. There they will meet Miss Ruth Albert, noted Broadway producer, who will select the performers for the different parts in the revue and instruct them in the preliminary preparations, costumes needed, etc.

There will follow two weeks of training and rehearsal and at the end of that time, according to officials of the Capitol Theater, who have investigated the qualifications of the more than a hundred child entertainers, who have applied for places in the cast, one of the finest kiddie shows ever gathered together will be ready for the inspection of Atlanta's critical theatergoers.

The show is to be put on all week of June 23, in connection with the feature comedy, "The Floradora Girl," with Marion Davies as the star, and one of those always-good Loew vaudeville programs, as a benefit of the milk fund for the child patients at the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. It is sponsored by the Atlanta Masonic Club, which hopes to raise enough money to supply all the milk the children at the hospital can drink during the next twelve months.

The money for the fund will be voluntarily contributed from the audiences, given gladly as a help to so splendid a cause and in appreciation of the magnificent extra entertainment the children of Atlanta will furnish in the "Toytown Revue." Members of the P. P. Club, a young ladies' social organization, will be in the lobbies and lounges of the theater to receive the donations. They will be dressed as milkmaids with their milkpails, ideal receptacles for coins and money of all denominations.

Woman, 30, Treated After Taking Poison

Suffering from a poison dose said to have been self-administered, Mrs. F. B. Gentry, 30, of a Killian street address, was admitted to a ward at Grady hospital late Sunday afternoon for observation. Her condition was not regarded as serious. Questioned by Hospital Patrolman J. D. Buice, her husband was quoted as saying that he and his wife "had had a little quarrel."

Len G. Broughton Rises to Defense Of Bishop Cannon

Dr. Len G. Broughton, evangelist-pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, rose from a sick-bed Sunday to deliver a ringing defense of Bishop James H. Cannon, Methodist, from what he termed "malicious political persecution."

Dr. Broughton, who has been confined to his home by illness since his return from the Southern Baptist convention at New Orleans, took his text from 17th Samuel, comparing Cannon's present position to that of David when his enemies gained temporary advantage and drove him into the mountains.

The Atlanta clergyman recited the firm stand taken by Jonathan at the pass of Em-rigel to defend David against destruction and appealed "for more Jonathans in the church today to take an uncompromising stand in defense of its champions."

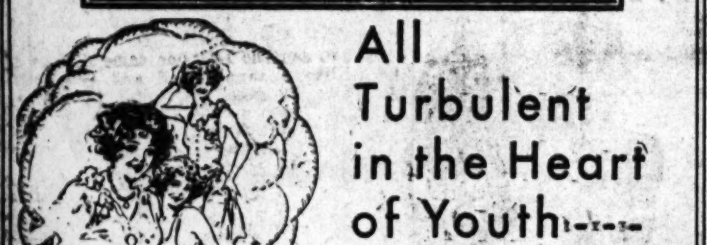

Dr. Broughton charged that the attack on Bishop Cannon was actuated solely because of his opposition to Al Smith in the last presidential campaign. He said that he did not in any sense condone Bishop Cannon's stock market operations, but that churchmen had best be consistent in "letting him who is without guilt cast the first stone" and be discerning enough to see that "the moral issue involved in Bishop Cannon's constructive work outweighed any other consideration in judging him."

Dr. J. E. Rattenbury, Wesleyan Methodist divine of London, England, preached at the evening service.

Jack Should Beat 'Der Maxie,' Barring Mental Lapses, Says Kirksey

CRACKERS BEAT LOOKOUTS IN TENTH, 7-6

If Gallant Fox decides to become an equine Gene Tunney now none can say him neigh.

Gallant Fox can go home, turn himself out in the pasture and lead the dignified life of a country gentleman if he wants to. None can take away the title of three-year-old champion of 1930.

The son of Sir Galahad III won the Preakness stakes, the Kentucky and the Belmont stakes in order named. In each race he faced the best opposition in his class and defeated it in such a manner as to leave no shadow of doubt as to his superiority.

The winners of the American Derby and other lesser stakes for three-year-olds can run for what is left; The Fox has the championship sewed up.

"JUST WAIT," THEY SAID.

After Gallant Fox won the Preakness experts laughed it off with the suggestion that he had beaten merely a jolly band of St. Bernards.

"Just wait until he gets down in Kentucky and tries to gallop on that cuppy track," they said sagely, "and then wait until he meets Whichone."

Well, the Fox went down to Kentucky and got out in front early and kicked portions of that cuppy track back in the faces of every three-year-old colt of note in training but Whichone.

It seems that Whichone did not come over to the Derby because he was not feeling well. Phil Scott got that way when he found out he had to fight Young Stribling.

STILL WAITING.

"Just wait until he meets Whichone," the experts said as they went back east to the Derby. They went on home and installed Whichone favorite over Gallant Fox. The deep thinkers just knew that Gallant Fox had met nothing but set-ups. Like Tulane last year, his schedule was not worthy of a champion.

Now that Gallant Fox has met Whichone and left Whichone several miles back down the road, he has done all that could be asked of any champion. He has met the best in his division—every horse that could go to the post—and has beaten them without being hard pressed. Earle Sande, the jockey who has ridden him in all these races, says he just had to sit there and ride. Nothing else could be asked of a champion.

Gallant Fox has broken no American records. So far as is known he has no blinding speed. All he can do is outrun whomever he happens to meet.

VANDY SET FOR FOOTBALL.

Speaking of champions and getting back home so to speak: One reads in the papers where all the varsity athletes at Vanderbilt passed their final examinations. None must attend summer school.

Furthermore only three freshmen—all linemen—failed to pass and must make up their work during vacation.

You know what that means. Dan McGugin has "got 'em" this year. Which means that he is liable to "get 'em" when the returns begin coming in next fall from the gridiron front.

Incidentally the news is that Julian Foster, the former Riverside star, who lives at Madison, Ga., was one who had nothing but A's and B's on his card. He is an end candidate and a fine one, too.

STRIBLINGS ON THE MOVE.

Pa Stribling and Son, dealers in fistic entertainment, passed through town last night en route to Chicago. Son will fight Otto Von Porat June 18 for a large sum of money. The fight for Stribling is considered a final tuning up before sailing for England to box Phil Scott, the fallen arch of England.

Von Porat was forced into the match by the Illinois boxing commission after refusing to take on Stribling at this time. The Norseman had just finished licking a prominent pug and did not want to endanger his career by tussling with Stribling.

The Striblings will work out publicly Monday and Tuesday, then hop over to New York for the Schmeling-Sharkey title fight. Then back to the work-bench again.

BIG SIX SHAKEN BY STEPHENSON

Cub, Returning, Takes Lead as O'Doul Leaves "Select" List.

The Big Six went through its first change in membership in several weeks yesterday as Riggs Stephenson, of the Chicago Cubs, playing regularly once more, reached the mark of 100 times at bat, the current indication of a regular, and took the National league lead with an average of .420, two points ahead of Babe Herman.

Frank O'Doul, whose hitting has fallen off considerably, gave up his Big Six position.

Stephenson made one hit in three times at bat yesterday while Herman made two out of five, losing one point.

Sam Rice and Babe Ruth improved their averages, each getting two hits in four tries, while Al Simmons, returning after a period of inactivity, and Paul Waner lost ground. Simmons, with one hit in five attempts, dropped six points to .350, while Waner, the only hitless member of the Big Six yesterday dropped 11 points, trying with Ruth for last place.

GRANT REACHES TOURNAMENT FINALS

Atlantian Trims Burwell; Feuer Noses Mooney To Advance.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 8.—(AP)—Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, defending champion, will meet Gus Feuer, of the University of Florida, tomorrow afternoon in the Fort Benning tennis singles championship match.

Courts and Mooney defeated Grant and Burwell today and DeMotte and Simpson were conquered by Feuer and Turner.

Spaniards Hold Place In Cup Play By Win

BARCELONA, Spain, June 8.—(UN)—Spain remained in Davis cup competition by winning the doubles from Japan today in their third round match after losing both singles matches yesterday.

Francisco Sindre and Enrique Maier, Spain, defeated Tania Abe and Takeichi Harada, Japan, in five sets, 5-6, 6-4, 6-4, 5-6, 7-5.

BRAGG POLOISTS BEAT OFF RALLY TO TAKE CROWN

Last Chukker Drive Fails; Benning Is Halted at 10-8.

By Ed Danforth.

Four officers and gentlemen from Fort Bragg relaxed limply in their saddles at dusk yesterday after beating off a fierce last chukker rally by four officers and gentlemen from Fort Benning, 10-8.

The horsemen from Bragg had won the southern circuit polo tournament of the regular army. The heavy silver punch bowl offered annually by the United States Polo Association was theirs, lacking only official transfer.

But the victory and the bowl was theirs by a margin as thin as a pony's eyelash. Two clicks of Captain Peter Roden's mallet had saved them from defeat. Balanced insecurely with one stirrup gone, Captain Roden twice drove balls away from the mouth of the goal as the watches ticked away the game and the aroused riders from Benning crowded around for the kill.

GREAT SPECTACLE. Or one might pick out any one of several other great plays that kept the gentlemen from Bragg a jump in front in that torrid final period. It was an close victory, can be won on a polo field. The 4,000 who attended were stirred to the core by the spectacle.

The Bragg quartet now can ride into the eastern army eliminations knowing that they never will be hard pressed that they were in that last chukker by the dangerous methodical crew from Benning.

From the expert comments of Lieutenant B. M. MacFadden on one side, Mrs. Ida Frances Wing on the other and the loud speaker above, your innocent correspondent gathered that the officers from Fort Bragg were playing a daring offensive game. They were throwing three men out on every play; shelling the enemy with every piece of artillery they had. Benning on the other hand was playing a normal game, though they have forced Bragg to discard such reckless play.

OVER ANXIOUS. But Benning was over anxious. They were getting the ball out too often and again only to miss shots. It was a far different Benning team from the one that had hit the ball so cleanly in other tournament games. If Benning had been hitting, Bragg never could have gotten away with that heavy shelling. And when in the last chukker the Benning riders tired and began hitting with less tension, away they sped and came within a goal of overtaking the enemy.

Jacoby, riding "Leda," carried the ball down field early and out. He scored on the knock in. A moment later Roden backed a Benning drive and Fleming drove it into a goal. A momentous "manish shot" from mid-field, Benning rallied and staged a defensive riot, but could not score on their own.

Late in the second period, Roden managed a quick stop and fed one to Fleming again and he drove it through. Those three goals equalled the handicap and the teams were even.

STARTING OFFENSIVE. Continuing their daring offensive, Bragg scored three more times in the third. Roden dribbled twice and split the posts with a drive. Then Fleming scored one from a clever shot. Roden and Paine counted after Roden and Fleming had missed. Benning had been hit but continued to play. H. F. (Little) Baker had his pony pulled up a lame from a quick stop, and was forced to change mounts. Still Fleming had not scored and their three-handicap was all that showed on the board.

Beginning the last half Fleming cut a scrimmage and scored the seventh goal. A moment later he fed the sideboards and fed it to Jacoby, who hit a great shot under his pony's neck for the eighth goal. Captain Roden, who often rides for Benning, was having a brilliant day of it as No. 2.

Finally the taut muscles of the Benning four sagged a little and they began to hit better. (Little) Baker grabbed a loose ball dribbled it down and scored first for the trailers. A moment later "Big" Baker, who had half of the famous sketch missed a goal by inches. Benning had served notice.

BENNING BREAKS. Roden hit in to start the fifth chukker and Fleming nimbly passed it down to Jacoby for the ninth goal. And that was the last Bragg score for a long time. Benning was on the loose at last.

"Big" Baker stole the ball out of a scrimmage and rode it in for their second goal. The period ended with Benning in stride.

The final chukker found Lieutenant Jacoby astride a flashy little mare called "Ginger." She held out on any pony on the field and he was hitting firmly at last. As play started, Jacoby dribbled down the field, scored on the knock in, and then dashed in and made it. Once again "Big" Baker took the ball along while Jacoby rode out Fleming and scored the final goal. That with the handicap made eight for Benning and the score 9-8 against them.

And so the sensational finish was over. Twice the Benning four rode the ball up and twice Roden, teetering in his saddle, backed it out of danger. And as the bugle sounded the game, Fleming took the ball out of danger and drove it along and Roden scored the final point from a close milling scrimmage.

P. G. A. Will Meet At West End Club

Atlanta's Professional Golfers' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the West End L. & N. Golf Club on Donnelly avenue. It will be one of the most important meetings of recent months.

Only one more schedule in the Pro-Amateur league remains to be played. There is an open date in the schedule for Candler park and Stockade, Candler park's place probably will be taken by the new professional and J. C. Jackson's place will be taken by his brother.

A schedule for the second half of the year will probably be discussed at today's meeting.

CRACKER BATS BOOM IN RACE

Past Week Saw Most of Regular Line-Up Boost Marks.

By Ralph McGill.

Those Cracker hitters, about whom we heard so much when the phenoms were blooming at Douglas, tra la, may be on the way at last.

The Cracker sport last week, in which the club won five of seven games played, found most of the men who appear with regularity in the lineup adding substantially to their batting averages, according to the averages released Sunday.

Which is one explanation of the slump, because, no matter how many of the boys get on base, it takes those base knocks to give them transportation around.

Jimmy Johnston, Bill Barrett and St. Rosenthal were the three who made the largest climb up the hitting ladder. And Bill Barrett boosted his almost 100 points.

GOOD ADVANCE.

The Memphis cast-off pulled up from a 250 batting mark to a bloated mark of 343. In the same short week, Jimmy Johnston, always a sure 300 hitter, brought himself up from 249 to 270. St. Rosenthal yanked himself up 19 points, going from 331 to 350. Bobby Lamotte, who joined the Crackers last week, picked up 12 points.

Only Sam Langford showed any material decrease. A few Crackers increased their averages by just a few points, but the trend was upward where before it had been retreating or standing very decidedly still.

These figures were from the averages released by the league statisticians through Thursday. The Crackers kept right on hitting well through the Friday and Saturday games and unofficial averages compiled since then find Rosenthal climbing on higher and with Fleming recovering from a slight slump which struck him earlier in the week.

MYSTERY HITTERS.

The Cracker hitters have been very much of a mystery. They are all men who previous to the good year 1930 owned impressive records. Roy Carlyle, who batted .348 in a double, .418 in the first nine games with Kansas City this spring, is floundering around with an associated mark of .247. The impression prevails that he will start hitting, but June is well along now and he has yet to show signs of pounding the ball in the usual Cracker style.

Red Barron, who was not expected to be a hitting fiend in human form, is going along safely above .300. He has developed into a dangerous hitter, but especially as a left-hander. His hitting is of the dead left-field variety, but his hits are sharp ones and he punches them through despite the fact that the general direction of his blows may be anticipated. Applying has been at bat but a few times yet shows signs of being a good hitter.

REAL SPURT.

The Cracker sport of last week was the best performance in the league. There is no indication that it is at an end. The performances continue to be first class ones, the old "dead" mark of Cracker hitting seems to be fast fading. The impression prevails that he will start hitting, but June is well along now and he has yet to show signs of pounding the ball in the usual Cracker style.

RETURN THURSDAY. The club returns Thursday with Little Rock and four games with Jack Steele's outfit in as many days. Unhappy of Cracker and Fletcher get together and decide to play off the two games rained out here on the last appearance of the Arkansas outfit in Atlanta.

Memphis follows the Travelers in with first games on the schedule. When they are completed the club goes on the road, opening in New Orleans.

Meeting three first division clubs in order will afford an excellent opportunity for moving up. With an equal opportunity, of course, for backsliding. At any rate it is a great chance for an improved ball club to step on the gas and move away from there.

SHARKEY BEST, ERRORS BARRED, KIRKSEY THINKS

Schmeling Will Take Advantage of Any Mistakes, However.

By George Kirksey.

United News Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, June 8.—Jack Sharkey should win the world heavyweight boxing championship against Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium Thursday night—but his mistakes can beat him.

Schmeling should lose, but he's capable of proving a dangerous foe if Sharkey loses control of himself at any stage of their scheduled 15-round battle which is expected to attract a $700,000 gate.

The logical way for Sharkey to win is by boxing Schmeling, who is a mark for left jabs and hooks.

If Sharkey tries to knock out Schmeling, the effort might prove disastrous as it did when Sharkey attempted to knock out Jack Dempsey two years ago and was finally knocked out.

Schmeling has a dangerous right fist which he keeps poised on his chest, ready to drop straight and true on an opponent's chin. Sharkey should never get hurt with Schmeling's right, unless the Bostonian has a mental lapse or grows too ambitious and attempts to knock out the young German.

The training methods and condition of both men have been criticized but most of this can be written off as incompetent testimony.

"I'm in the best condition of my career," says Sharkey, "and I want every citizen of the United States to know that I have left no stone unturned in preparing for this fight."

Schmeling has been living like a king at his training camp at Endicott, N. Y., resting when he felt like it, playing golf in the hot sun, and working none too often, but there's no truth in the statement he is under-trained. If anything he is over-trained.

Sharkey will outweigh Schmeling, probably ten pounds or more. Sharkey will scale about 198 while Schmeling is not likely to go over 180.

Both fighters have exhibited flaws in their training bouts. Schmeling has been easy to hit with a left jab. He has a bad habit of blinking his eyes, he has refused to train steadily against first-class sparring partners, despite a year's absence from the ring.

Sharkey has developed a bad trait of leaving his chin wide open for a short right when he draws back his left foot. He has never broken himself of leading with L's right. He fights in flurries, occasionally giving the impression that he tires easily. Sometimes he boxes flatfooted. Mentally, Schmeling seems to have at least an even break with Sharkey, and possibly an edge. The young German, however, has been too detached, and refuses to get excited, one way or the other about the outcome.

Sharkey never wants to win a fight as badly as this one. The fact he is fighting to keep the title in America has made an indelible impression on him. As Loeck says Sharkey's mood is similar to what it was before he fought Tommy Loughran and knocked him out.

Large Crowd Watches "Gob."

ORANGETOWN, N. Y., June 8.—(AP)—The largest crowd of the training period saw Jack Sharkey go through five fast rounds of boxing today.

The Boston sailor, preparing for his heavyweight title bout with Max Schmeling in New York this Friday night, warmed up by punching the small bag and then took on Johnny Grocco for three rounds, and Paul Cavalier for two. Sharkey displayed plenty of speed of foot as he displayed plenty of power with his punching, especially with his left foot that he plans to use against Schmeling.

The Boston contender weighed 198 after his workout, and with two more days of training ahead of him it appears that he will enter the fight against the German at 196 pounds, his best fighting weight.

Max Unimpressive In Sunday Drill.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 8.—(AP)—Max Schmeling went through an unimpressive workout before 3,500 spectators today.

The Teuton heavyweight, preparing for his title match with Jack Sharkey, boxed six rounds, two each with Charley Belanger, of Winnipeg, Canadian lightweight champion, and Lou Barba, New York heavyweight, and one each with Frankie Bush and Jack Shaw.

Belanger and Barba both made excellent showings against the German contender. Belanger used his left hand to great advantage, kept Schmeling off balance with it, and once landed a heavy left hook to the body that looked powerful enough to drop almost any man. Schmeling took it, however, without a quiver. Barba also fought well and the German found it hard to get started against either the Canadian or the New Yorker.

He appeared to better advantage against Bush and Shaw, and against the latter particularly he was hitting much more sharply and freely.

Schmeling will box five rounds tomorrow and four more on Tuesday before winding up the training grid.

VERSATILE LAD. Pitcher Henry Johnson, an emergency outfielder with the Yankees, is not inexperienced in the garden. He played part of a season in the Milwaukee outfield.

Bout Principals

Jack Sharkey, above, and Max Schmeling, below, are shown above as they rested from the grind at their respective training camps. They are to meet Thursday night in New York for the world's heavyweight boxing crown. The Boston sailor man, Sharkey, is favored at present by the dopesters, although the German invader is not being disregarded.

Cracker Skipper Leads League in "Putouts"

Johnny Dobbs, Put Out of Game at Chattanooga, Always Fighting for Victory.

By Ralph McGill.

Unless there is some astigmatism in my memory John G. Dobbs is leading the league in "putouts."

When Umpire Cotton Knapp put John Dobbs out of the park Sunday afternoon at Chattanooga it was the fourth time this year that the Cracker skipper has been retired from the field of honor for vigorous and emphatic protests.

No other manager is anywhere near him in "put outs." In fact it would not be surprising to find John Dobbs leading the league all year with a good, safe margin. He is not an umpire baiter and he is not hard to get along with. In fact he is a mild sort of gentleman until he feels that his rights are being kicked about unnecessarily. And then he objects vigorously.

He grew up in the days when ball players had some rights and when umpires were not the exacting and headstrong arbiters they now are. And no umpire will get away with polite murder of some rule without hearing from John Dobbs. He is not a brawling sort but he will rush in and protect his team and his right as much as he is able to do in these days when umpires have been encouraged to believe that they are possessed of some sort of divine right of kings.

USUALLY RIGHT. John Dobbs is usually right. His protest at Chattanooga was undoubtedly correct. The Lookouts were being driven to cover by a Cracker rally in the fourth. The Lookout management was changing pitchers and as managers always do in a case similar to that, was stalling for time to give his team time to collect its wits, if any, and get back to playing ball.

Umpires never seem to know what to do in a case such as the one that came up Sunday. Invariably they stand about motionless like a traffic cop and getting no results at all. They get very angry always because they feel themselves to be as ridiculous as they actually appear. And they are.

FEW GOOD UMPIRES. And when John Dobbs came out with his protest at all the time being given the Chattanooga relief pitcher to warm up he no doubt ran into

PINCH KNOCK BY JOHNSTON BRINGS VICTORY

Red Barron Injured by Foul Tip; Atlanta Battles Hard.

Barron Doing Well In 'Nooga Hospital

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 8.—Red Barron, Cracker outfielder, who was lamed by a foul tip from his own bat in the tenth inning of the Cracker-Lookout game here this afternoon, was reported resting comfortably at the Erlanger hospital late tonight.

Barron was taken to the hospital immediately after the blow, where it was declared that he had been badly lamed and that his eye had been hurt by the shock.

Barron will be released from the hospital some time today, it was reported, but will not get back into the game for another day or two.

CHATTANOOGA, June 8.—Most ball teams can lose a game in the regulation time, but it took the Chattanooga Lookouts 10 innings to lose one away to Atlanta here Sunday. The score was 7 to 6.

Atlanta won in the extra frame after the Lookouts had neglected chances to win in both the eighth and ninth stanzas, and it came about by chance that Jimmy Johnston, 1929 manager of the Lookouts, refused to whack the single which won the game.

It was an unusual break, and one unfortunate to Chattanooga, which brought Johnston to the bat. Red Barron thinks it was unfortunate for him, also. Polvogt had led the tenth with a single and Knight sacrificed him.

COMPLETE AND CLEAN. Barron, who had hit twice and sacrificed once, took cuts at a pair of bad ones, missing by a foot. Southern Billy Byrne saw another down, the same spot. Red barely tipped it, but the fast one came off the bat like a cannon ball and caught him on the chin.

It was a clean knock-out. Red tumbled to the dust like he had been shot. After a few moments he was carried to the stadium.

In came Jimmy Johnston, the same old clever pinch-hitter, with two strikes on him, and no balls. It was a tough situation, but not for Jimmy. Billy tossed one in and Jimmy spanked it to left field, while Polvogt raced in. The Lookouts made a stab in the tenth, but to no avail. Bigelow opened with a single, Jones sacrificed. Jones fled to right and Walker grounded out. Previous to this Johnston had singled three times in succession and Walker had tripled for the longest blow of the day.

SEE-SAW GAME. The game was see-saw all the way. Barron and Sheehan singled in the first, then Rosenthal flied to Bigelow and the red-head was caught at the plate. Carlyle then singled to Sheehan. The Lookouts evened it to their half when Treed singled and Jones fled to right and Walker grounded out. Previous to this Johnston had singled three times in succession and Walker had tripled for the longest blow of the day.

Tars Nose Out Leafs
For Southeastern Top

The Seima and Jacksonville clubs were in the lead for leadership of the Southeastern league most of the past week, but the Tars won the Saturday game while the Leafs lost theirs, which gave the Tars the edge.

Out of the eight contests the Tars had the most, lost two, and won five, which was the best record throughout the loop. Although Seima took the top position for the week in runs with 36, they were tied with Tampa for third place in the league games, while Montgomery was second with four wins, and two losses. The Leafs also got six of the home runs this week in the league, Columbus getting the most.

The Foxes only won one of the seven contests, and Pensacola came through with four defeats and two victories. The Foxes had more runs scored than them than any other club while Seima was low in this respect, with 18.

Below is a table giving results for the week:

PASSION FLOWER

By Kathleen Norris

Thirty-First Installment.

"What if it does, mother? Suppose it does make me feel happier to be friends with Dan again, not to have bitterness between us?"

"I don't see how you two can be friends," the older woman persisted. "Oh, mother, yes! Why not?"

"There's folks in the village that won't speak to him, or her either," Mrs. Pringle said darkly.

Cassy's brown cheek reddened.

"Well, they're nothing to me!"

"No, of course not. Still it isn't any too wise for you to let Dan be seen around here."

"No, I agree with you," Cassy conceded, after a moment's thought. "I don't imagine," she added, "that he has any intention of coming again."

One stormy, wet, late afternoon, just before Thanksgiving, Dan was sitting in a deep red velvet chair, trying to read Dulse, who was out, had selected this book for him—as "exciting." But he did not find it as exciting as his thoughts were today, as they had been. Indeed during the last few weeks, those weeks that had elapsed since he had walked into Cassy's kitchen.

Homesickness racked him. It flared his food, it haunted his solitude, it made even a civil answer to loving, devoted Dulse difficult. He wanted to go back to Cassy. He had seen her only once in the interval: on a certain Sunday when a Halloween luncheon had been given at the club. Cassy had not been at the luncheon, but Dulse had driven up at the moment when she and Macallister Jessop were leaving.

Cassy had been stepping along beside Mac with that old buoyancy Dan remembered. That joyous, half-dancing step that meant that all was well with her.

He had seen her a hundred times weary and tired, sick and discouraged and overburdened; it was almost a shock to see Cassy smart, free and back in perfect health and high spirits again. She was probably, he told himself firmly, going to marry Macallister Jessop. Mac was not particularly handsome, but every one liked him. He was one of those quiet, bookish, kindly fellows that all women admired.

"You know, when we reached the club today," Dan said to him later, "did you see that man and woman who were walking to the cars, in the direction of the tennis courts?"

"Today?"

"Yes, just as we reached the club. The woman was in red—awful looking suit. That was Cassy—he had known it would buoyancy Dan felt if they got married?"

"Oh, I'd be delighted."

"Dan Wallace, you would not!"

"I tell you I would. He's a nice fellow."

"He doesn't look particularly exciting," Dulse had observed, in a satisfied tone.

"He's all right!"

In the rather unusual opportunity presented, he thought of Cassy and Mac, and of his reasons for saying that their marriage would please him. Let the surgery be done, and be over with; let the battle be on, and the worst faced once and for all.

He stirred restlessly in his chair, picked up his book, threw it down again. The rain streamed and splashed steadily in the garden, and from gutters and porch roofs. It was quite dark now, and still no Dulse. He began to fancy an accident.

Dan tried to beat the drum. The telephone rang sharply, and he seized it with relief. It was Dulse, gay and laughing.

"Dan, you poor darling, did you think I was drowned?"

"Where on earth are you, you runaway?"

"I'm down at the garage. I couldn't get my finger-wave before the meeting, so she made me a 5 o'clock appointment, and then, my dear, fairly racing home, if we didn't break a spring."

"Where are you, dear? I'll be right down."

"No, no, you won't! You stay right where you are, with your cold! No, that's what I was telephoning about. Darling. The Phippses are here—I can't talk, very well. Dulse breathed, in a cautionary undertone—"and I'm bringing them home for dinner, and afterward we'll have some bridge!" Is that all right, and will you tell Sarah? Oh, the dearest," she went on, in an enthusiastic rush, "afternoon, and we talked—China! I'm bringing home all the pamphlets."

When she ended the conversation, Dan sat perfectly still for a few minutes, with his face sober. He loathed the Phippses, for one thing.

But Millie persisted in being amiable and friendly, and lately Dulse, as the third winter of their marriage settled down wet and dark at La Loma, had begun to see occasionally that she really must have old Millie and Dan up to dinner. Today's accident to a motor spring had been her opportunity to invite them, evidently, without too much formality.

Dan supposed that he could be civil to them for one evening.

But there were other reasons for annoyance in Dulse's conversation. He knew perfectly why she had introduced that question of a trip to China so casually into the telephone message. It was a sort of warning to Dan that she wanted to travel.

Sarah came in, and Dan explained to her the expanded plan. There would be company for dinner. He had barely finished when the telephone rang again.

On the instant, the wind rose to a shriek in the dark garden outside, and the wooden house creaked and strained. Wet branches slapped at the window-panes, and a gust of wind, coming down the chimney, sent a wave of acrid smoke through the room.

"I can't hear you!" Dan called, into the telephone.

A woman's voice; not Dulse's. "Dan—it's Tommy. He was hurt—"

"My God!" Dan said, the receiver and mouthpiece jammed suddenly against ear and mouth, in his frenzy of interest.

"It's Cassy, Dan! Tommy—"

"Cassy, how badly! How badly?"

"Oh, badly, Dan. Seriously!"

"Not—"

"They say so, Dan. Can you come? He asked for you?"

"How'd it happen?"

"He was down at the tracks—with the bigger boys—"

"Cassy, have you a doctor?"

"He's just here now."

"I'll come, dear! I'm on my way!"

"Dan, will you hurry?"

"I'll be there in 15 minutes, Cass!"

He slashed the receiver into place.

The sitting-room door, the outer hall door, swung wide behind him. The dark, wet, night air rushed in, and Dan, with a gasp, saw a light swooped from the fireplace, and curtains and papers rose and struggled in the scented, luxurious living-room, on the coming of the wind.

Breathless, capless, his feet plunging into unexpected puddles between the house and the barn, and the wild black night howling and cracking and splashing about him, Dan ran to his car. Its suddenly blazing funnels of light picked up mirror-like flashes from the wet foliage, shaking wildly all about, and the stream that was the road bed.

Arrived at the ranch, he drove straight in under the pear and oak trees, and went up the porch steps to the kitchen door. He opened it without knocking.

Mrs. Pringle and the big Swede girl and little Margaret were in the kitchen, with one or two silent, watching. Mrs. Pringle nodded to Dan. Margaret, in a diminutive blue jacket's blouse and red tie, was eating her supper at the table; she looked awed. Mrs. Pringle nodded to Dan apathetically; both she and Inga had been crying.

"How is he?" Dan asked.

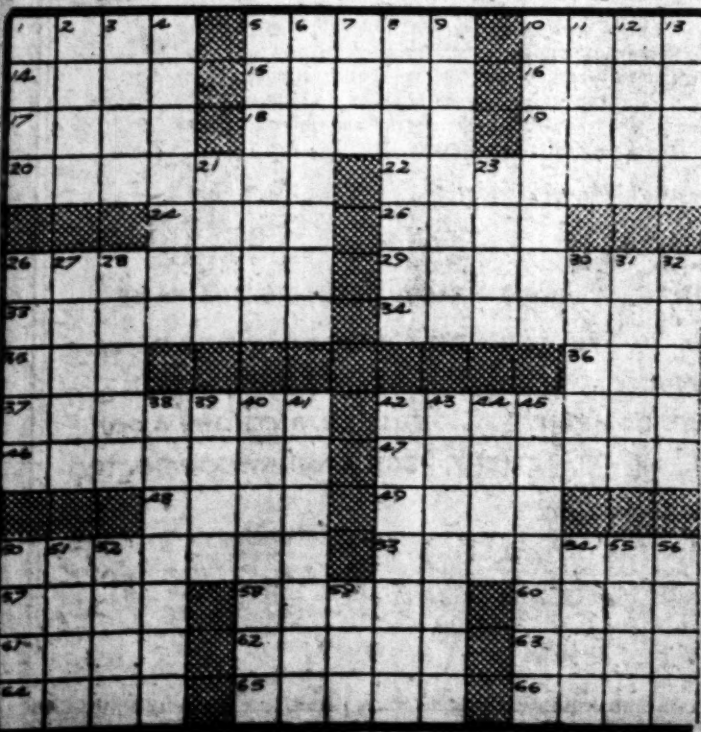

"He's just the same, Dan," Cassy's mother answered. And in the silence she slowly, significantly shook her head.

A Favorite Kipling Story

IT IS recorded of this well-known British author that he once remonstrated with a friend for having sent him a publication from which the advertising pages had been cut. "Why, you have thrown away the most interesting section!" Mr. Kipling said.

Advertisements are more interesting today than at any time since the invention of movable type. Merchants and manufacturers realize that their announcements must compete for interest with the work of the high-priced authors and illustrators.

If you are not a regular reader of the advertisements in The Constitution this is a good time to cultivate their acquaintance. You will find them interesting. You will find them friendly. They show you where to stop and take considerable strain off both shoe-leather and pocketbooks.

Read the advertisements because they are interesting. Believe them because they are true. Act upon their suggestions because it will pay you in many ways. Before you pick up the telephone, you usually consult the phone book. Before you start out to shop, consult the advertising columns of The Constitution. They will give you a direct connection with the merchandise you want.

Don't stop with reading the news and editorials.
The Constitution advertising columns are equally important.

FOOT WOUND CAUSES DEATH OF MINISTER

Blood Infection Fatal to Rev. Joseph L. Reed, of Woodville.

The Rev. Joseph L. Reed, well-known Baptist minister in Georgia, died Sunday at the Georgia Baptist hospital following a stubborn battle of 15 weeks with septicemia, a blood stream infection resulting from a wound sustained when his ax glanced and struck his foot while he was cutting wood early in February. For two weeks Mr. Reed was treated by physicians in Woodville, where he just had gone as pastor, and for the past 13 weeks he has been in the Georgia Baptist hospital.

Transfusions and other modern methods of treatment were introduced in the hope of saving his life, but his reserve of physical strength was finally exhausted. His eldest son, Walter, became infected before his father was brought to the hospital and he was in critical condition for several weeks, but finally rallied and has fully recovered.

Funeral services for Mr. Reed will be held Tuesday at Social Circle, Ga. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta, will conduct the funeral.

Mr. Reed was born in Gainesville. He attended the Chattahoochee High school and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. He held two pastorates in Kentucky before returning to Georgia. He was pastor first at Eubank, Ky., and later in McKinley, Ky. Six years ago he returned to Georgia, accepting the pastorate of the Baptist church at Social Circle, where he served until last fall, resigning there to accept a call to Woodville. He had been in Woodville for a very short time when he suffered the accident which cost him his life.

Mr. Reed married Miss Elizabeth Spencer, of Gainesville, who survives him, along with their five children, Walter, Louis, J. L. Jr., Mary and Charlotte.

New Tent Mission Will Open Tonight

An elaborate program has been planned for the opening service of the tent mission at Lee street and York avenue, to be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight, it was announced Sunday by the Rev. Dr. G. W. Gasque, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, who is to conduct the mission.

The sermon for the occasion will be delivered by the Rev. Marvin A. Franklin, pastor of the Park Street Methodist church and the first layman's message will be brought by R. Winston Harvey. A brief address will be made by J. W. Awtry.

The Rev. Gasque will conduct the service, lead the prayers and give his first instruction of "Sin and Its Cure." Special music has been provided and the congregational singing will be accompanied by William Carter at the organ. W. J. Jackson and A. J. Garing will play a number of cornet-trombone duets.

The tent will seat 600 persons and a like number may be seated on the outside in the event of pleasant weather. A large congregation is expected to be present at the opening service tonight.

THROAT BADLY CUT, MAN IS NEAR DEATH

Slashed probably fatally in what police said was a "drunken brawl" at 329 Capitol avenue Sunday night, Wallace Keyes, of 460 E. Central, is at a private hospital in a critical condition, while A. L. Ragdale, admitted assailant, is being held by police.

Shortly afterward, said Keyes, Ragdale refused to give police details of the affray. J. M. Houston, of 30 Capitol square, said he accompanied Keyes to the Capitol avenue house to get some home brew. He said Keyes, Ragdale and a Mrs. C. A. Stewart, alias Annie Smith, resident of the house, went upstairs.

Shortly afterward, said Keyes, came running down the steps with his jugular vein slashed.

Captain John A. Scharf, director of the police, said he was pushing the injured man to the hospital. Ragdale is being held without bond on a disorderly conduct charge, while a charge of drunken and disorderly conduct was lodged against the Stewart woman.

Henry Spear, negro, 195 Little street, Sunday to die Sunday at J. L. Allen, 216 Norwood street, who said the negro attacked him on Kennett street with a knife. Allen is held on a charge of suspicion.

REOPENING OF JURY PROBE SLATED TODAY

The scene of the trials, probes, charges and counter-charges at the courthouse, which has been holding the center of Atlanta's attention for the past few months, again will be shifted today when the grand jury is slated to reopen its investigation into alleged jury tampering, particularly with reference to the trial of Walter C. Taylor.

Renewal of the prosecuting staff's attention to the jury tampering investigation caused the removal from the docket in the superior court of six graft trials scheduled to come before Judge G. H. Howard this week, thus allowing the entire attention of the prosecution to be centered on the probe by the grand jury.

Announcement in the change of plans was made Saturday morning by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, and the statement came after the state had completed preparations for the trial of the entire case docketed, it having been forecast that Alderman J. E. Turner or Alderman J. Allen Couch would be called to face a jury by Tuesday.
